Memorial Day Celebrations

As I look to this Memorial Day and the celebrations around the country and the world, I remember, as thousands did on May 10, 2008 in Lawrence MA, the sacrifices that our soldiers and veterans have given for the freedoms that we all enjoy each and every day. Please, keep in your thoughts and prayers SGT Alex Jimenez, and Byron Fouty, POW/MIA one year ago. I was not able to attend that event on May 10th, but I understand that it was very endearing. With a flyover and members of these boys unit from Fort Drum, NY serving as color guard and Rolling Thunder Chapters from New England. I am saddened that I could not make it, but I am joyful that so many did, THANK YOU. When you go to the many Memorial Celebrations (Washington, DC, Boscawen Cemetery, Ossipee for the Traveling Wall, Dedication of a bridge in Newport NH for SPC Justin Rollins) remember and keep in your hearts our soldiers, POW/MIA's and veterans who gave the ultimate price so that we can demonstrate and make this country accountable for those who are still unaccounted for.

I want to express thanks to those who helped clean the Boscawen Cemetery, it was a beautiful day and enjoyable to spend with so many who care whole heartedly. Congratulations to our newest members who have received their boot patches and back patches. I look forward to working with all of you and getting to know you better.

May you all have a safe and memorable Memorial Day!

House Panel Backs 3.9% Pay Raise

Stars and Stripes (Leo Shane III) May, 08, 2008

Washington—A House panel Wednesday backed a 3.9 percent pay raise for all military personnel next year, mirroring Senate plans to give troops a bigger boost than Pentagon officials had requested. Members of the House Armed Services military personnel subcommittee included the money in their draft of the new defense authorization bill, which sets spending and policy priorities for the military in fiscal 2009. Chairwoman Susan Davis, D-Calif., said the larger pay raise is needed to help shrink the gap between military wages and private sector paychecks.

If passed, the pay raise would be the highest for troops since 2004 and the 10th consecutive year military pay has outpaced the employment cost index. Defense officials had requested a 3.4 percent increase, equal to the index's inflation estimate. But earlier this month Senate lawmakers backed the 3.9 percent figure, indicating that both chambers will likely adopt the higher raise when they negotiate compromise legislation later this year. For an E-5 with four years' military service, the Senate plan would mean an increase of $79.86 a month, about $10 more than the Pentagon plan. For an O-4 with four years, it would be $189.25 a month, about $24 more than the Pentagon plan.

The House panel also announced plans to eliminate co-pays for preventive care procedures such as cancer screenings and cholesterol tests in an effort to encourage more Tricare patients to seek medical advice before serious problems occur. Davis said the plan covers all beneficiaries except those enrolled in Tricare for Life. She said lawmakers were unable to find enough money to extend the same coverage to that group along with other Tricare members. It also includes a pilot program for military spouses to receive job training in "portable" careers as they move from base to base, and another to allow servicemembers a temporary gap in service to pursue family or education goals before completing their tours of duty.

But the draft excludes nearly $1.2 billion in pharmacy and doctors' fees backed by defense officials to cover the rising cost of health care. Lawmakers have rebuffed those efforts in recent years, saying military retirees shouldn't bear the brunt of those expenses.

The authorization bill does not set pay raises for civilian defense employees, but Congress often uses the military paycheck boosts as the basis for the civilian raises in later budget bills.

If passed, the raise would go into effect Jan. 1

New Names Etched Into Vietnam Veteran Memorial Wall

By Jon J. Kruzel

American Forces Press Service

“Washington, May 7, 2008—The names of four U.S. service members were etched into glossy black walls of the Vietnam Veterans Memorial this week alongside more than 58,000 of their fallen comrades.

Finishing the addition today was the name of Raymond C. Mason, a Marine Lance Corporal who died a year ago as a result of ailing health from a bullet wound that paralyzed him in February 1968 during the ‘Tet Offensive’.

In a ceremony at the wall here, Mason’s widow, Priscilla Mason, watched as an engraver inched a sandblaster over the Marine’s stenciled name with surgeon like precision.

Priscilla got on bended knee, held a sheet of paper up to the bright, new inscription, and rolled a crayon in diagonal strokes until ‘RAYMOND C MASON’ was embossed against the white paper. She said she plans to have the outline tattooed onto her skin, and she has promised to make dozens of rubbings for friends back home in Riverside, R.I., when she returns here on Memorial Day ‘This is wonderful. He’s finally home’ she said when asked how she felt upon seeing the finished product on Panel 41E, Line 64 of the Memorial.

The names of Richard M. Goosens, a Marine Lance Corporal, and Dennis O. Hargrove and Darrell J. Naylor, both Army Specialists Fourth Class, were inscribed here yesterday.

The Defense Department determined that their deaths, which occurred years after the end of U.S. operations in Vietnam, resulted from wounds suffered in a combat zone there.

The Wall’s 58,260 etched names bear testament to the ultimate sacrifice paid by those U.S. troops, said R. James Nicholson, former secretary of Veterans Affairs.

‘It’s also a tangible expression of the gratitude of the American people for those who served and did there,’ he said in an interview today. ‘The hope is that more and more Americans will grow to appreciate the sacrifice and the price that was paid to perpetuate our freedom.’

Designed by architect Maya Lin and built in 1982, the Memorial consists of two black wall sunken into the ground, with rolling mound of earth behind it sloping toward a heavily trafficked street.

‘It was Maya’s vision for the Memorial that it appear as a rift in the earth,’ said J. C. Cumming architect of record for the Memorial.

‘At the same time, the wall serves a practical purpose of separating the visitor from the noise and the traffic of Constitution Avenue and the noise of the city.’ As a result, the architecture creates a quiet and contemplative atmosphere, he said, a design that allows visitors to have a respectful experience.

Jan C. Scruggs, founder and president of the Vietnam Veterans Memorial Fund, said adding the names this week completes the healing process for surviving friends and family members. The additions also reflect America’s solidarity with the service members of past and present, he said.

‘When you join the service, you can feel comfortable that the service is going to stand behind you,’ Scruggs said in an interview today. ‘Especially the people who are serving today in Iraq and Afghanistan in combat, they need to know that we’re behind them and we appreciate what they’re doing.’

The Director's Corner

Patrick McGhie
NE States Director

Many of us are starting to ride. As always, be safe but also early on be extra cautious for "rider rust" and also for the sand etc. that is still on the road.

I was able to attend the May 10th event to honor and remember two soldiers missing in Iraq for approx on year. The families of Alex Jimenez (Lawrence MA) and Byron Fouty (Mich) were both in attendance and I was able to meet and speak briefly with them to assure that Rolling Thunder will not allow their son's to be forgotten. Byron's dad is actually a member of the MI 5 Chapter, right near where my kids live. Members of their unit were also in attendance to honor these two soldiers and support the families.

The ceremonies were well done and I was asked to say a few words which I did. In closing, I stated that no matter what term anyone wants to use to classify these two heroes, to us "They are POW/MIA" This statement received a loud round of applause.

Rolling Thunder XXI is only about 2 weeks away. This is the premier event to remind the world of our POW's and I look forward to seeing many of you in DC this year. Remember to review the media points as sent out by National and when you refer to the ride, please refer to it as a "Demonstration". Be safe on trip to DC!

I know that many will not be able to attend and we will be representing all of you so you will be there in Spirit through us. Attend your local Memorial Events that weekend and represent Rolling Thunder in your local communities. Let everyone know that Rolling Thunder cares and the Missing are "Not Forgotten!"

Never Forget our POW's and MIA's and keep those serving today in your thoughts and prayers.
